

GALAPAGOS ISLANDS

A once-in-a-lifetime experience to learn about the wildlife, ecology, and geology of the Galapagos Islands, and their influence on Darwin's theory of natural selection.

BIOL 207

Galapagos: Ecology & Evolution

1-3 Credit Spring Course / Summer Travel

May 14th - 25th, 2018

No pre-requisites. Program open to all majors and year levels. Space limited to 14 students

For more information, contact faculty director, Robert Rothman (rhrsbi@rit.edu)

Info. Sessions

Wednesday, October 4th

5:00-6:00 pm

Gosnell Hall, Room 1305

Thursday, October 5th

4:00-5:00 pm

Gosnell Hall, Room 2355

ECUADOR

RIT Faculty-Led Program to Ecuador

START AN APPLICATION

DEADLINE: October 22, 2017

GALAPAGOS ISLANDS

Faculty-Led Program to
Ecuador

Once-in-a-lifetime experience to learn about the wildlife, ecology and geology of the Galapagos Islands, and their influence on Darwin's theory of natural selection.

BIOL 207 - Galapagos: Ecology & Evolution

1-3 Credit Spring Course / Summer Travel

Spring 2018 course at RIT with travel to the Galapagos as part of the course on May 14th - 25th, 2018

No pre-requisites. Program open to all majors and year levels. Space limited to 14 students

For more information, contact faculty director,
Robert Rothman (rhrsbi@rit.edu)

INFO. SESSIONS

Wednesday, October 4th
5:00-6:00 pm

Gosnell Hall, Room 1305

Thursday, October 5th
4:00-5:00 pm

Gosnell Hall, Room 2355

START AN APPLICATION

DEADLINE: October 22, 2017

May 14 - 25, 2018

An RIT Faculty-Led Program to Ecuador

GALAPAGOS ISLANDS

A once-in-a-lifetime experience to learn about the wildlife, ecology, and geology of the Galapagos Islands, and their influence on Darwin's theory of natural selection

BIOL 207 - Galapagos: Ecology & Evolution

1-3 Credit Spring Course / Summer Travel

Students will be enrolled in a spring 2018 course at RIT and will travel to the Galapagos as part of the course in early summer.

*No pre-requisites. Program open to all majors and all year levels.
Space is limited to 14 students*

Info. Sessions

Wednesday, October 4th
5:00-6:00 pm
Gosnell Hall, Room 1305

Thursday, October 5th
4:00-5:00 pm
Gosnell Hall, Room 2355

START AN APPLICATION

APPLICATION DEADLINE: October 22, 2017

For more information, contact faculty director,
Robert Rothman (rhrsbi@rit.edu)

A once-in-a-lifetime experience to learn about the wildlife, ecology and geology of the Galapagos Islands, and their influence on Darwin's theory of natural selection

GALAPAGOS ECOLOGY & EVOLUTION

RIT Faculty-Led Program to the Galapagos Islands, Ecuador, May 14 - 25, 2018

BIOL 207 - GALAPAGOS: ECOLOGY & EVOLUTION

1-3 Credit Spring Course / Summer Travel

Students will be enrolled in a spring 2018 course at RIT and will travel to the Galapagos as part of the course in early summer.

*No pre-requisites. Program open to all majors and all year levels.
Space limited to 14 students*

INFO SESSIONS

Wednesday, October 4th

5:00-6:00 pm

Gosnell Hall, Room 1305

Thursday, October 5th

4:00-5:00 pm

Gosnell Hall, Room 2355

START AN APPLICATION

APPLICATION DEADLINE: October 22, 2017

For more information, contact faculty director, Robert Rothman (rhrsbi@rit.edu)